American Citizen. His career of glory through life was unstained by crime; and his death was felt as a loss by every individual of that community, whose political existence was the fruit of his exertions.

THE FAREWELL ADDRESS of General Washington is the condensed result of long experienced, matured reflection and strong anxiety for the permanent prosperity of his country. His advice concerning the great importance of maintaining indissolubly the federal Union: the danger of indulging too much in party feelings:—the necessity of supporting public credit at home:—of maintaining public faith in all our transactions with foreign nations:, of encouraging foreign intercourse free from foreign attachments:—are so many lessons of prudence which we should do well to bear in constant remembrance. Why therefore should not his legacy of wisdom and affection, be so published, as to admit of being constantly before our eyes? An ornament to our apartments, while it serves as a memento to guide our public feelings, and to manifest that the author lives in our memories?

To make it such, s the aim of the proposed Edition.

The Publishers are determined that the Address shall be printed on paper of the same quality and size as the splendid edition of the Declaration of Independence now engraving, & shall in all respects be a companion worthy that great State paper.

As errors are known from various causes to find their way into the most important writings, the publishers feel it their duty, not only to satisfy themselves, but to satisfy the public, of the authenticity of the copy from which this splendid Edition of the Farewell Address shall be published.

MR. GEORGE BRIDPORT will complete the Design; of which the following is an outline:—The introductory part of the Address, in highly finished ornamental penmanship, shall form the upper part;—the other parts of the plate, shall be appropriate ornaments;—in the centre below shall be engraved, from an historical design for this publication by Mr. Sully the Surrender of the British Army at York-town, October 19, 1781.

The Address itself shall be printed with type of a peculiar and appropriate character, designed for this purpose by Mr. Fairman, and to be cut and cast by our best artists. No more of the type shall be cast than will be necessary to execute this Address: & when it shall be compleated, the type and the matrices in which it was cast shall be utterly destroyed; so that no other work shall ever be executed by the same letter which shall have printed the "FAREWELL ADDRESS" of him who lived and died, first in War; first in Peace, and first in the hearts of his Countrymen.

The paper, of the first quality, 36 by 26 inches, will be made by MR. Amies. The INK shall be carefully prepared, and of the best materials.

The signature of General Washington from which it is proposed to execute a fac simile for this publication, is that which he affixed to the Constitution of the United States, when he signed it as President of the Convention in which it was framed; Thus associating and concentrating some of the greatest events in the life of this great man and in the history of his Country.

The ornamental writing will be designed and executed in the very best manner; the ornamental parts of the design and vignette, will be engraved by G. FAIRMAN: and the Typographical part executed by John Binns. They will take especial care of the execution of their several duties in this respect, and they will call to their aid, all that liberality, zeal and industry can command from the Sciences and Arts, so as to make the "Farewell Address" no mean specimen of the state of the Fine Arts in the United States.

As much progress has already been made in designing and procuring materials for this splended edition of Gen. Washington's "Farewell Address," it is expected it will be ready for delivery, with the Splended Edition of the Declaration of Independence, in the month of December next. That the public may have a more perfect view of the design and style of execution, than can be given in a proposal, of this Tribute to the memory of him who was "a Conqueror for the Freedom of his Country! A "Legislator for its Security! A magistrate for its Happiness," it is not intended to solicit any Subscsiptions until the Ornamental parts of the plate shall be executed. It will then be submitted for public inspection and public patronage, at five dollars a Copy, payable on the delivery of the Engraving. Philadelphia, July 31.

ABSCONDED from the subscriber's service, on Saturday night the 15th inst. Negro woman TREACE or TREACY—she is five feet two or three inches high, about 30 years of age, of a very dark complexion, and when particularly examined is very apt to confound herself.—It is deemed unnecessary to mention her clothing, as she has all of them with her, and being extremely artful, she no doubt will change them and endeavor to pass for a free woman. She is well acquainted in Charles county, Prince George's, Alexandria and the City, as about 5 years ago she made her escape, and was 6 or 7 months about the Lower Ferry, leading to Alexandria, and from thence to Washington City, where she acquired an extensive acquaintance among the Negroes belonging to John Brent, esq.; and the greater part of said Negroes belong now to William and Rober Brent, esqrs. and Mr. Dudley Diggs. Negro Treace has a scar on the back part of her neck, occasioned by a seaton put for the benefit of her eyes, which are very weak at this time. I will give 10 dollars if taken in the county and secured in jail, or if out of the county and secured as aforesaid, so that I get her again, 25 dollars, and all reasonable charges paid if brought home. FIFTY DOLLARS REWARD!

I WILL give the above reward for apprehending and lodging in any jail in the District of Columbia, a person by the name of JOHN POST, a Bricklayer and Stonemason, who has been at work for about two months past at Fort Washington, and was discharged on the 7th of September inst.—He says he was born in the state of New-York; is about 5 feet 9 or 10 inches high, and has sandy hair: he had with him an apprentice boy, nearly grown. A few days previous to his leaving Fort Washington he took the liberty of borrowing, in the name of Mr. John Cohagen, from a lady at that place 15 dollars, which was not known till after he left it; and immediately after he was discharged and paid off, he forged two checks in the name of the Subscriber, on the Farmers' Bank of Alexandria, one of which he procured the money for at the Bank, and the other he passed to a person in Alexandria, which was detected and refused.—Previous to his coming to Fort Washington, he worked in the City of Washington, where he said he intended to work again; but it is probable he has not stopped so near the theatre of his villany.
Persons are cautioned against being imposed on by him. BOLIBHA LAWS.

Original Miscellany.

MR. EDITOR,

H. having given a valedictory to Lucius, it occurs to me, as his distant junior alphabetical relative; and also as his friend, to offer a few strictures on the labored production of master Philo-Lucius.

I cannot conceive of what family these Lucii are composed.

I have heard of Lucius Junius Brutus when I was at school, or call it at college; and am therefore disposed to accord unto them the family name of Bruti; for certainly the agnomen, (to borrow the expression of H.) of Junius, would be disgraced by such relatives.

It appears to me, and indeed to all our brethren of the alphabet, that H. has acted right in giving up newspaper controversy with the Lucii; and to speak frankly, if it were not so clearly in my power to wring his withers, I should also abstain.

What a singular coincidence it is, that in the columns of your Gazette, we should find the Lucii family and that of the "Fudge Family," (to use lower parlance) cheek by jowl.

One would be disposed to think that they are of a kin—but whether Lucius and Philo ought to be added to the latter, by the names of Ned and "Tam Fudge," I shall never inquire about it.

This Philo (or felo de se writer.) holds "a grey goose weapon," coarse—tipped with gall, and feathered with petulance—yet you may perceive in his strut, "proud parnassean sneer and conscious simper," that he conceives he has polished his periods—ad unguem.

Let us cut him up in detail; for such a writer, who has thus arrogantly thrown the gauntlet to my friend H., merits, from even a generous foe, no quarter.

Still it is a dismal prospect to be obliged to wade through a column and a half of obscure verbage—where there is carcely any strong point of attack.

The first paragraph might possibly pass; although it blunders about a meaning, when speaking of irony.

Let me here mention a bon mot, which is apposite; and which was applied by an English nobleman to Anthony Pasqnin—fictitious—really Williams; who died very lately at New-York.

Tony dined in his company, and his lordship said some civil things to Pasquin—who replied, with all that affected humility of H.'s "unlettered man," that his lordship was ironing him.—No, by ——, said his lordship—Tony, I must first wash you.

Verbum sapienti.—

The feebleness of the second paragraph is beneath even stricture.

The third introduces to us—"a well tempered blade"—quite a misnomer, in fact or in metaphor; for Philo is very evidently an ill tempered blade.

When my alphabetical relative looks back through the long vista ("the long tract of time" is insufferably prosaic) of years during which his locks have been blanched, he will always consider it most shameful to mistake facts.

Let me here call Philo-Lucius to the bar of truth; and let him acknowledge, for it must be done, that he was told by the foreman of your Gazette that H. never saw the unprovoked attack of Lucius till the forenoon preceding that when the "retort courteous" was handed for insertion by my friend H.

As to the languid stuff reiterated about belle lettres and poetry, let it pass—as the French say when they wish to get quit of nonsense—tout cela peut etre beau, et bon, et bel.

Philo-Lucius says to H.—"it will be seen, (the that is forgotten) you do not distinguish the playfulness of laughter, (he should say mirth) from the understanding of seriousness."

We are here at issue—to use a term within his practical ideas—for what man of sound understanding can understand such a sentence?

As to Bourdaloue—by a typographical error called Bardalow (and how pitiful it is to blame the very types that he fondly indulges the blissful feeling have over-shadowed his temples with literary laurels)—if Philo-Lucius cannot feel, without referring to the "cold unimpassioned Blair," the force of the sublime figure quoted by H., as having been used by Bourdaloue, in describing ETERNITY, I am constrained to pity the mediocrity of those talents which generally are allied to vanity; or unfortunately to a person who has rather, late in life, commenced scholar—and I must tell him, in borrowed lines from Pope,

"Still, still remain
"[illegible] forehead and Cibberian brain."

The expression of being "dreaming, or being in a much less pardonable predicament," so far from being anacreontic, is barely noticed by me, the friend of H., as beneath the character of a gentleman; and confirms the truth of my observation as to the coarse quill this writer uses.

I now approach the "place de grave" to give Philo-Lucius, this swaggerer, this globeful of vanity and verbage, the coup de grace—and without looking into Voltaire's Mahomet, shall descend so far as to parody abuse—it pains me even to scourge abuse—

Fat! ta pedantric et ta petulance
Auront leur recompence.

Philo! you ought to have hesitated before you ventured to touch the THISTLE of Scotland; or until a friend had expounded unto you its motto—"nemo me impune lacesset," and "noli me tangere."

"The beautifully negligent periods of Hume!" It is really too humiliating, that a mere tyro in literature, should dare thus to speak of that philosophical writer—a writer who was the first to give us what may be denominated the philosophy of history; and who in his essays, as acknowledged by Adam Smith, furnished him those ideas of political œconomy which appeared under the title of the "Wealth of Nations."

My friend H. did say (as a person would state a simple fact) that the poem of Christ's Kirk on the Green (and he might have added that of "Peebles to the Play," very lately discovered at Oxford) was written by James the first of Scotland—and this Philo-L., most recondditely acquainted with Hume, and with the "stately elegance of Gibbon," who, like Concanen in the Dunciad, goes beyond his depth—

'A cold, long-winded, native of the deep.'

This tyro dares to tell H. that he mistakes the sixth James of Scotland for the first. What an anachronism! It proves that this writer can only scribble when he is surrounded by books; and that he has no true bottom in literature.

Of James the first of Scotland, that elegant and accomplished scholar and gentleman, let me quote the words of Robertson, and the "negligent periods of Hume."—Robertson says:

"The English made amends for their injustice in detaining that prince a prisoner, by their generous care of his education."

And again:

"It was the misfortune of James, that his maxims and manners were too refined for the age in which he lived."

Of this same unfortunate personage, permit me to transcribe what Hume says:

"But though the king (Henry the 4th) by detaining James in England, had shewn himself somewhat deficient in generosity, he made ample amends by giving that prince an excellent education."

To put this Philo in complete error, as he attempted so to do to H.'s piece, let us speak of James 6th of Scotland and first of England, in the words of Hume.

"We shall mention the king himself at the end of these English writers; because that is his place, when considered as an author. It may safely be affirmed that the mediocrity of James' talents in literature, is one cause of the contempt under which his memory labors; and which is often carried, by party writers, to a great extent."

But the simple and naked truth is, that this mistake of Philo-L. can be very easily accounted for, in the strong attraction and affinity of congenial minds.—JAMES VI. WAS THE PRINCE OF PEDANTS.

The last paragraph of Philo truly belongs to the prosing corps of writers.

"Not daring to attack the main body of Lucius' periods," and so on.

This forsooth is intended for a metaphor, or a rhetorical flourish—The main body of a period! Alas! alas! the shadow of a shade.

Return at once, Philo, to your Corderius, and cease thus to prate about literature; and be no longer a cormorant for fame, in that road.

Let me close by observing that it is evident from the vituperence of style of Philo, that in Lucius—"hœret lethalis arundo lateri." But as that family may not be perfect, as latinists, let me borrow from an elegant translator—

"So flies the wounded stag, provok'd with pain,
Bounds o'er the spacious downs in vain;
The feather'd torment sticks within his side,
And from the smarting wound a purple tide
Marks all the way with blood, and dies the grassy plain."

I wish you good night, Philo-Lucius—polemic—and that repose which the bed of Procrustes may afford you; for you now are laid thereon, "thou thin man in a cencer."†

You may write and write again; you may attempt to heap Ossa on Pelion, it will produce nothing; for all my brothers of the alphabet from A to Z, have sworn by the Styx (an oath beyond your ken) that no further notice will be taken of any of the Bruti, nay even, not at Philippi. X.

* Where, in former times, at Paris, criminals were broke on the wheel, "the coup de grace" was the final stroke of the executioner.

The following are the beginning and concluding passages of Gov. Wolcott's speech to the legislature of Connecticut on opening the session:

"I offer you my congratulations on the circumstances under which we are now convened. Our country continues to enjoy the blessings of peace and tranquility; a fertile season has been accompanied with general health; abundant supplies have rewarded the exertions of the husbandman; agriculture, manufactures, arts & science, are in a state of progressive improvement; our internal commerce is flourishing, and that with foreign countries is gradually surmounting the embarassments under which it has labored. This combination of prosperous events demands united expressions of devout gratitude to the beneficent Parent of Nature, from whom all these blessings have been derived."

"In this favored country the only legitimate objects of legislation are security of equal rights and privileges to every portion of our fellow-citizens; and these objects can only be attained by laws enforcing the observance of strict and impartial justice. In proportion to the importance of those subjects which may come under consideration, the obligations of sincerity, candor and mutual forbearance will be increased. That our mutual consultations may result in promoting the best interests of our constituents, is the servant wish of my heart."

From the Charleston Patriot.

An article dated Riga, July 26, states, that "during the last six years, the Nobility of Riga, Pernau, Dorpat, &c. have manifested their views of enfranchising the peasantry on their domains. The States of the Province, which assembled on the 12th ult. are deliberating on this important project. The Governor, Marquis de Paulucci, opened the Sitting by a discourse, in which he exhorted the Nobility to follow the example set them by Esthonia and Courland. The Marshal of the States, in the name of their Order, replied that they would feel happy in meeting the wishes of his Imperial Majesty. Thus we fully anticipate the accomplishment of this great work under the sceptre of Alexander I.

From the Norfolk Herald, Oct. 23.

From our correspondent at Gibrallar, under date of August 29.

We are much disappointed in not yet knowing the determination of the Court of Spain, relative to general Andrew Jackson's proceedings in Florida; the reason may be that they have not yet received any thing official upon the subject.—The knowing politicians in this quarter, however, are of opinion that Spain will do nothing until the meeting of the "legitimates" at Aix la Chapelle next month, when she will appeal to their high mightinesses as she did when the Portuguese took possession of Montevideo. This supposition is much less improbable than a great many things that come to pass at the meetings of such great characters—and as they meet avowedly for the purpose of preserving the peace of Europe, it will not be very surprising if they evince some feeling of oppugnation at a measure which threatens to put one of their "holy allies" in "the armor and attitude of war." The invasion of territory, you know, has always been considered by them as the highest belligerent act, and they have never failed to follow it up with a declaration of war, taking care, in that measure to be before the party aggrieved! Spain certainly evinces now and then a wish to avoid even the censure of the United States—and since the release of Mr. Meade, a number of little incidents have transpired to give a color to such an opinion. Last Saturday only, two Spaniards were shot at Ceuta, who were captured in an independent privateer, whilst the "Americans" taken in the same vessel were spared, and are even treated with greater indulgence than could be expected.

We have had no arrival from the United States for a fortnight past, and as we know of several vessels that were destined this way, we begin to apprehend some stronger symptoms of tribulation on your side of the water than we are aware of.

The frigate United States, Capt. Crane, arrived here the day before yesterday fr. Leghorn, where she left the rest of the squadron. She is taking in provisions, and returns immediately.

Our Consul at Tangier, Mr. Simpson, writes, that the plague at that place is of the most benign kind, and that several persons have actually recovered of it.—The daily deaths are now only from 3 to 5, and if the present cool weather continues, it is hoped the malady will cease entirely in a short time.

FROM MARTINIQUE.

Captain Bissell, who arrived here on Wednesday from Fort Royal, has favored us with a file of Martinique papers to the 28th of September. They give an account of a hurricane experienced at that Island on the 21st and 22d September, which will be found below—and in a paper of the 26th is an Ordonnance, "In the name of the King," which announces that the exportation of Flour and Codfish is to be allowed, and that of Indian Meal, Rye Flour and Rice suspended, until further orders. It had been very sickly in the ports of Martinique. Ibid.

St. Pierres, Martinique, Sept. 23.

On Monday morning, about 2 o'clock, a heavy sea (raz de marce) began to break on the shore, and increased in violence until to day, when it appears to have nearly subsided. Fortunately there were no French vessels in our harbor, except 3 or 4 drogers, who sailed on Monday forenoon to Fort Royal, where they ought to have arrived before the storm. The only vessel lost was the American brig Mungo Park, Isaac Lincoln master, which was stranded yesterday evening near Burten's Square: the crew and their effects however, were saved. The wind began to blow from north west and shifted to west and south west. It increased last night and was accompanied with a very heavy rain. It is now lulled, but the rain continues falling at intervals. Some houses situated in the quarter du Figuier, and Bouille street (mouillage) were shaken to their foundations. The sea has swept away several the hangards (sheds erected on the shore.) The trees of Bertin's Square have been torn up or otherwise destroyed. The shore is covered with wreck. We are as yet ignorant whether the plantations have received any damage, but we are led to presume from the small force and duration of the gale that it will not be considerable.

September 26. As we were led to expect in our last number, our apprehensions respecting the fate of the plantations, are entirely dissipated. The damage caused by the storm is very trifling: the bananas, plantains, &c. on the heights have suffered in a few instances, but no habitation has been injured. The town of Fort Royal has not suffered in the least, and none of the vessels that were in the harbor have experienced any damage except the French schooner D'Aline, Capt. Riquier, coming from Porto Rico, which was cast away on Tuesday last on the Pointe des Tournelles—the crew was saved.

COMMERCIAL.

Extract of a letter to the editor of the Charleston Times, daled Havana, 30th September, 1818.

"You will suppose, that after such a lapse of time, something must have occurred amongst us worth communication, but we are really without any thing new—arrivals take place almost weekly from Cadiz, but not a word is said of the Floridas.

"Business is getting a little brisker with us, though our market does not improve for American produce. I have merely time to quote you the current prices. But few cases of fever have occurred lately, and our city is becoming more healthy.

"The prospect for the coming crop of coffee is such as to exhilirate all those who are engaged in the culture of it. It bears a price now which surpasses any thing of the kind ever known here—white coffee at 28 dollars, green 30 dollars; and what is more wonderful, it is purchased at these prices. Contracts are really made, and making for the next crop, deliverable in January, February and March, at 17 and 20 dollars. The crop will be large, notwithstanding considerable was lost by the failure of rain in the month of May last, and a sparing supply through the season. However, plantations that did not produce 600 arrobes last year, will yield 4000 this year; a very considerable difference, though we are of opinion that it will not go lower than 22 and 23 dollars.

"Brown sugars have risen rapidly since the failure of molasses—the following are the current rates: white 12 a 12½ dollars; brown 9 dollars, Muscovado 9 dols. Referring you to prices annexed, I remain truly.

Philadelphia and Baltimore flour 19 dols. dull; New-Orleans 17, do; beef, No. 1, 18 a 20; Connecticut 15 a 16; lard 28; hams 20 a 24; codfish 6 a 6½; rice 9 a 9½ (no offers) last sales; candles 22; do sperm. 4 reals a 4½ per lb; soap 14 dols; do Castile 38 to 45; shelled almonds 28 a 35; whale oil 11½ a 12 per cwt. dull; pitch 5 a 5½; tar 3½ a 4; gin in cases 7; Catalonia wine 80 a 85 per pipe; brandy, French 190 a 200 per do. scarce; do Spanish 200 a 250 do.; saffron, fresh and dry 22 per lb; sheathing paper 2 a 2½; tobacco, Virginia 10; boards 23 a 24 plenty and dull; scantling 30, wanted; exchange on U. States, par to 2½ per cent premium; do on London, do: no freights.

EXTRAORDINARY PHENOMENON.

The following is related in "Colonel Johnson's overland journey from India," just published. It was witnessed by the travellers towards the border of Persia.

"Towards six in the morning, a very cold wind had set in from the N W occasioning fogs in particular places along the valleys, rising only a few yards above the wet ground, on account of the cold air, which condensed them. On coming to a height which overlooked those vapours, we saw one of them in what appeared a deep chasm or valley before us, into which the road led. Beyond the valley we observed above the fog the tops of high mountains, crowned with rocky precipices, which seemed at no great distance, and therefore proportionably steep. We were aware that we had a kotul or pass to go over, and had been told that Auxhund was at the top of it, on the other side. As we were still, by our reckoning, ten miles from that place, we dreaded the labor of crossing from the chasm below such a precipitous and extensive chain of mountains. On descending slowly towards the fog, I perceived a dark object in it which resembled a distant village; but as we advanced it soon changed its aspect, and assumed that of a long avenue of trees, which seemed to open out as we approached. My friend and I were both expressing our surprise at finding an avenue of fine trees on a desert where we did not expect to see a village, and on which we had hitherto proceeded for miles without observing any trees, when in a few minutes we found that the view had been illusory, and that the nearest object, in what had seemed the avenue, had the appearance of camels with light burdens, on one of which we remarked a man mounted.—Afterwards, as they cleared the fog, they proved as we now thought, to be mules laden with bags of grain, and men and boys walking with them. We passed on through the fog, which was very thick, and for a time lost the high road. The wind soon blew off the vapour, and the sun shone very bright, when to our astonishment this fancied range of mountains was found to be only a bank before us of forty or fifty feet high, over which the road proceeded.—We at first concluded that the lofty ridge of mountains we had observed from the eminence was intercepted from view; but no such range existed within twenty miles of us. The bank was crowned with rocky masses, which, seen through the fog had occasioned these successive illusions. This series of fallacious appearances produced an indescribable effect on the mind, and might, to an oriental fancy, have suggested the idea of magic."

Boston, Oct. 23.

The following interesting letter, per brig If, at Rhode Island, was received last evening.

"Gibraltar, Sept. 14.

"The Peacock, Capt. Rogers, has been at Tripoli, and I believe has had communication. Mr. Shaler, our Consul General was with the Peacock,

"Capt. Gamble, late of the Erie, is still in the hospital establishment at Pezza.

"Both the Spark and the United States were in here a few days since, for supplies. The latter sailed again the 2d, and the former on the 8th.

"The Franklin 74, Com. Stewart, ar. the 9th inst. and sailed again yesterday morning, to join the United States, Erie and Spark, off Cape De Catt.

"When the Franklin came down, she spoke the U. States off Cape de Gatt, and left the Erie, lieut. Gallagher, in Almeria Bay. It is supposed they are bound on a cruise, on the Barbary coast.

"From the state of the Plague at present in Barbary, I should not be surprised if the Peacock was denied admittance into any of the ports of the Mediterranean, which will oblige her to ride out a very long quarantine at some of the Lazarettos, or to return home.

MESSRS. EDITORS,

This is the age of useful inventions.—The academy of Ladaga in Laputa, was nothing to the land of Uncle Sam. Grammar is taught by a machine in a few days; writing in eighteen lessons, and a language in forty-five. And what is worthy of especial note, every one's plan or invention is the best. Now in order to prove incontestibly, that my discoveries and inventions are the bestests of all, I submit a few of them to the public. I claim the merit of the following

DISCOVERIES.

1. The Perpetual Motion.—Let a hole be bored through the centre of the earth from the top of the Catskill mountain to the Antipodes. Let a 44 pound ball be dropped in; this ball, by the time it reaches the centre, will have acquired velocity enough to project it exactly the perpendicular height of the mountain, above the surface of the earth on the other side; its force being spent, it will return to the top of the mountain, and proceed on its second voyage, and so on ad infinitum, to the utter astonishment of the Antipodes, who will be as much puzzled with it as some of the New England philosophers were when the moon-stones fell among them.

2d. That water is composed of aqueous particles, and that it is the natural element of sharks, although some occasionally live on land.

3d. That contrary to the opinion of some philosophers, there is actually heat in fire. This important discovery I fortunately made, by getting my foot severely burnt a few days ago.

4th. The bat and flying squirrel are two distinct species of birds, and that each are essentially different from the owl.

INVENTIONS.

1st. "A new and improved method" of—drowning eels.

2d. A steam Engine by which the English grammar may be acquired in an hour, as well as in a year.

3d. A treble barrelled fowling piece, whereof one barrel will spring a partridge, the second shoot it, and the third pick it up and carry it home.

4th. A concise way of teaching writing by means of a one horse waggon.

5th. A rat trap for catching musquetoes.

6th. A four wheeled sleigh, calculated for the West-Indies.

7th. A portable grist-mill for ascertaining the longitude.

8th. But the eighth invention not being invented, I shall not mention it at present.

TWIST.

As George 3d, king of Great Britain, was walking the quarter deck of one of his men of war, with his hat on, a sailor asked his messmate "who that lubberly fellow was that did not dowse his peak to the Admiral?" "Why it's the king," says Jack.—"King or no king," retorts the other, "he is an unmannerly dog!" "Lord, where should HE learn manners?" replied Jack, "he never was out of sight of land in his life."

Valuable Land for Sale.

HAVING more land in the tract on which I reside than I can farm to advantage, I will expose to public sale, on the 5th day of NOVEMBER next, if fair, if not the next fair day, eight hundred acres, divided into lots of two hundred acres; each lot has seventy acres in wood;—of the cleared land one hundred and fifty acres are in clover, and two hundred in rye and wheat. This land is situated ten miles below Alexandria, and is bounded north and east by Accotink creek, which separates the lower part of it from Jonathan Janney's mill, where the Alexandria price can be had for grain.—It is as fertile as any land in the county, and as susceptible of improvement, by clover and plaster, as any I have seen. Persons wishing to view it will call on the subscriber, living at Cedar Grove, one mile below Janney's mill.

The terms will be one-third of the purchase money in hand, and the balance in two equal annual payments. The sale will take place at 12 o'clock, on the premises.
EDGAR McCARTY.
Fairfax co. Va. October 6

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensils and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.
September 4 GEORGE MASON.

Valuable Property for Sale.

THE subscriber is desirous of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate and the lands of General Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—40 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover last spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence.—The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables.—There is on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutricious as the best timothy or clover.—With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow,—it would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it. Auction & Commission Store.

NATHL. P. BIXBY & CO. respectfully inform their friends and the public generally, that they have taken that large and commodious store formerly occupied by the late Mr. Thomas Robinson, nearly opposite the Union Bank, Bridge-st. where they will transact all kinds of business in the Auction and Commission line; and as they are determined to give their exclusive attention to that business alone, those gentlemen who are disposed to employ them, have the best guarantee that they will be fairly dealt by. They flatter themselves that a punctual, diligent, and correct attention, together with their general knowledge of business, will secure to them at least an equal share of public patronage. Their intention is to avoid, as much as possible, retailing goods at auction. They are now prepared to receive goods of every description, to sell at public or private sale, and will attend to sales of property at any place within the town.

Gone to the Southward or Westward,

A YELLOW WOMAN, called Celia Detcher, in the 23d year of her age, about 5 feet 2 or 3 inches high—marks like moles on the right side of her face, which, with several letters on her left arm, were made with india ink. She is about four months gone in a state of pregnancy—followed her husband, Jim Clark, a yellow man, who was purchased from this place and taken away in company with a large number of slaves, about two week ago, by a man of the name of Basset. It is supposed they have gone to the westward: Celia was born free, and had with her a notarial certificate of her freedom, and description of her person. Her mother, the subscriber, is much afflicted by her manner of going away, and desires that any humane people who may chance to meet with her, will persuade her to return, being apprehensive that when she gets into a strange country, where she will be unknown and out of the reach of her friends and those who would be likely to protect her, attempts may be made by some avaricious and unprincipled persons, to deprive her of her liberty, and sell her for a slave. Should any such attempts be made, fifty dollars reward will be paid to any person who will communicate such information as shall lead to the conviction of the offenders, and the recovery of the woman.
HANNAH DETCHER.

PROPOSALS,

By Gideon Fairman, John Binns and Charles S. Parker,

TO PUBLISH

A Splendid Edition of Washington's Farewell Address.

To the People of the United States.

THE world has seen enough of warriors and of Heroes—enough of Statesmen—of men who have guided Armies in the field, or dictated as Sages in the Cabinet, for the exclusive purpose of Ambition. History from its earliest page to the present day, has offered to our contemplation, only ONE WASHINGTON, but ONE MAN, whose dangers in war, and labors in in peace, were undertaken and supported with a single eye, to the benefit of his country; whose wonderful and honorable success, was the plain result of wisdom in design, and valour in execution; whom danger never appalled, nor defeat depressed; who, persevering in the justice of his cause, wooed Victory till he won her: who covetted no reward but the well earned approbation of those whose interest he lived to promote: who renounced all public honors, when they ceased to be the necessary instruments of good to the people, whose gratitude conferred them: who superior to all Monarchs, was content to be called the American Citizen. His career of glory through life was unstained by crime; and his death was felt as a loss by every individual of that community, whose political existence was the fruit of his exertions.

THE FAREWELL ADDRESS of General Washington is the condensed result of long experienced, matured reflection and strong anxiety for the permanent prosperity of his country. His advice concerning the great importance of maintaining indissolubly the federal Union: the danger of indulging too much in party feelings:—the necessity of supporting public credit at home:—of maintaining public faith in all our transactions with foreign nations: of encouraging foreign intercourse free from foreign attachments:—are so many lessons of prudence which we should do well to bear in constant remembrance. Why therefore should not his legacy of wisdom and affection, be so published, as to admit of being constantly before our eyes? An ornament to our apartments, while it serves as a memento to guide our public feelings, and to manifest that the author lives in our memories?

To make it such, is the aim of the proposed Edition.

The Publishers are determined that the Address shall be printed on paper of the same quality and size as the splendid edition of the Declaration of Independence now engraving, & shall in all respects be a companion worthy that great State paper.

As errors are known from various causes to find their way into the most important writings, the publishers feel it their duty, not only to satisfy themselves, but to satisfy the public, of the authenticity of the copy from which this splendid Edition of the Farewell Address shall be published.

MR. GEORGE BRIDPORT will complete the Design; of which the following is an outline:—The introductory part of the Address, in highly finished ornamental penmunship, shall form the upper part;—the other parts of the plate, shall be appropriate ornaments;—in the centre below shall be engraved, from an historical design for this publication by Mr. Sully the Surrender of the British Army at York-town, October 19, 1781.

The Address itself shall be printed with type of a peculiar and appropriate character, designed for this purpose by Mr. Fairman, and to be cut and cast by our best artists. No more of the type shall be cast than will be necessary to execute this Address; & when it shall be compleated, the type and the matrices in which it was cast shall be utterly destroyed; so that no other work shall ever be executed by the same letter which shall have printed the "FAREWELL ADDRESS" of him who lived and died, first in War; first in Peace, and first in the hearts of his Countrymen.

The paper, of the first quality, 86 by 26 inches, will be made by MR. Amies. The INK shall be carefully prepared, and of the best materials.

The signature of General Washington from which it is proposed to execute a fac simile for this publication, is that which he affixed to the Constitution of the United States, when he signed it as President of the Convention in which it was framed; Thus associating and concentrating some of the greatest events in the life of this great man and in the history of his Country.

The ornamental writing will be designed and executed in the very best manner; the ornamental parts of the design and vignette, will be engraved by G. FAIRMAN: and the Typographical part executed by John Binns. They will take especial care of the execution of their several duties in this respect, and they will call to their aid, all that liberality, zeal and industry can command from the Sciences and Arts, so as to make the "Farewell Address" no mean specimen of the state of the Fine Arts in the United States.

As much progress has already been made in designing and procuring materials for this splended edition of Gen. Washington's "Farewell Address," it is expected it will be ready for delivery, with the Splended Edition of the Declaration of Independence, in the month of December next. That the public may have a more perfect view of the design and style of execution, than can be given in a proposal, of this Tribute to the memory of him who was "a Conqueror for the Freedom of his Country! A "Legislator for its Security! A Magistrate for its Happiness," it is not intended to solicit any Subscsiptions until the Ornamental parts of the plate shall be executed. It will then be submitted for public inspection and public patronage, at five dollars a Copy, payable on the delivery of the Engraving. Philadelphia, July 31.
